Shelly,

I have a calendar invite and this message from Mike Healy:

Thanks for registering for G2 Summit Irvine. Your registration has been approved. This year's summit features the latest mission critical information from some of the World's leading IT Manufacturers and their partners...topics such as IT security threats and how to prevent them. Protecting your data so you stay out of the headlines for the wrong reasons, these and so much more...

If you have a qualified IT co-worker you think could benefit from the program, feel free to invite them

They can check out the program, register and reserve their seat:

Subject: Mahsa, important (reschedule of this week's Tech Summit).

Hi Mahsa, please note that the Tech Summit you registered for this week has been rescheduled to September 15th (please mark it in your schedule). We apologize for the short notice but it was inevitable due to a possible internal data breach.

Please note that Mike Healy is no longer an employee nor part of our organization in any way. Please alert us if he or a new entity he may be calling "G2 Summits" uses your email which you provided to us in confidence when you registered. We have not "rebranded" to G2, changed websites to G2, nor changed event locations. Due to the confusion this has possibly created we thought the only prudent measure was to reschedule.

We take your privacy seriously and our sincere apologies for not detecting any unauthorized use of your email. Mike has assured us in writing that he has not emailed you from his new G2 entity (alert us if otherwise). Thank you for your understanding and we look forward to a great event on September 15th.

Sincerely,

Hello,

Yes this is quite confusing. I did receive numerous solicitations to attend a G2 conference on the same date at a different location. It didn't appear to be the same conference. I believe I attended the first tech summit at the request of the original organizer. This one looked promising so I am sorry this has been such a confusion. Another source of confusion is a separate domain; sandiegosummit.org. This appears to be the same as sandiegotechsummit.com.

Thank you,

Rob

Dear Robert,
G2 Summit San Diego 2015 is Monday, June 8th, so we'd like to offer you a few tips on how to help make your conference experience more successful. If you have any questions or are no longer able to attend, please contact us at registrar@g2summits.com.
Join your peers and network over breakfast which will be served starting at 7:30 am. Hear from our industry partners and understand what tools and techniques attackers are using and how to architect for prevention, how to virtualize your infrastructure and applications without impacting performance, how to lower your capital and operational costs, and how to extend the life of your equipment and boost uptime.
Location
DoubleTree by Hilton San Diego Downtown
1646 Front St, San Diego, CA 92101
Tel: +1 (619) 239-6800
DoubleTree San Diego Downtown
OnSite
Registration
Registration begins on Monday, June 8th at 7:30 am. Your badge, can be picked up at the registration desk which will be located outside the Seaport Ballroom. Badges must be worn throughout the conference.

Dress Code

A REMINDER: The meeting room will be set to a comfortable temperature to accommodate our guests. If you are prone to being cold in air conditioning, please consider packing a sweater or light jacket.

Parking

Self-Parking is available at DoubleTree for a discounted rate of $8 per car.

If there's anything we can assist you with to make your visit with us more comfortable, please e-mail registrar@g2summits.com. We look forward to seeing you on June 8th.

Good morning Mike,

Blue Moon again discussed the opportunity of a speaking session level after our chat last week, however since this our first time attending still feel we would like to start with the table sponsorship– with the possibility for a bigger presence next year. Thank you very much for your help on this.

I have attached our signed contract, and would just like to confirm this is only for the Providence Summit, held at the Omni Hotel.

Subject: TechSummits Sponsorship Question

Hello Mike,

I registered my company Blue Moon Industries as a Tech Summit sponsor for Providence yesterday, but never received a confirmation email as described. Can you confirm our signup and payment?

Thank you,
